

“What’s Going On?” Social Studies Project

This year in fifth grade, the students will be working on current events on a bi-weekly bases. The students will need to find articles in newspapers that answer one of the following questions: What’s going on in the world? What’s going on in our country? What’s going on in our state? What’s going on in our community? What’s going on in our school? What’s going on in our classroom? I will assign the students a date and a question and they are to find an answer to their question. I ask that all students look through newspapers, find an article, write a summary about in, bring the summary and newspaper article to school and present their article on the assigned date. Since all students will know when they are presenting well in advance, I ask that they keep in mind that this is current events, and the news story should be current. (One week old at the very most.) Each student will be presenting several times through out the year. Here are the dates and questions:
